HYMN

By S. H. CLOTH.

How good is God! I see his loving smile
In every drop of morning dew;
And though he crowns each day with gifts,
His gifts are still forever new.

The sun shines clear as first it rose
From dreary chaos into birth;
The rainbow is as beautiful
As first it spanned the waiting earth.

What shall await our future days,
How now withholds from our weak sight?
The book of fate is kindly closed.
His ways, though dark, are always right.

The sweetest hours by far in life
Are those that lie between each pain,
Like sunbeams streaming from the sky
Between two drops of falling rain.

Oh! then, away with all distrust!
God's gifts are always fresh and new;
The hand that leads us through the past
Will lead us all our journey through.

GUIZOT ON THE BIBLE.

The ex prime minister of France has always cherished strong religious convictions and sympathies, and his thoughts on the influence of religion on the progress of civilization are worthy of careful study by statesmen and philanthropists. At the annual meeting of the Protestant Bible Society of France, he made the following remarks on taking the chair:

and the "Gospel" could not be a spectacle without parallel. It is the history—if I may be pardoned such an expression—it is the history of God himself in his relations with souls and human societies. It is the spectacle of the one, real, personal God incessantly present and acting in the world. No other national and religious history presents any thing resembling it.

Every where else in tradition and movements of States, you only meet with gods evidently of human invention. You find the work of human imagination, the recitals of human adventures, attributed to persons pretending to be Divine. The Old Testament and the Gospel bear an entirely different character; it is the presence and the action of God, who made man and the world and who governs them. And the great spectacle, is first unfolded among a small people, shut up and ignored in a little corner of the world. The religion of the Old Testament commenced in isolation and obscurity. Then all at once, of a given day, at a determined hour, that religion passes from obscurity to an immense ambition—from isolation to the conquest of the world. It announces that conquest, and advances to it through the most skilful. And it is evidently attaining its purpose; evidently our earth is belonging to the Christian nations; they are conquering it by mind and by strength and will possess it entirely. Who would not be struck with such a fact accomplished by the Bible! Who would not see in it a proof of their mission and a source of their power? I pass from the historical to the moral order. Since it has existed, and every where, where it exists, immortality is in presence of great problems which concern it and which preoccupy it passionately. What are we? Whence do we come? Where are we going? What do our nature and destiny signify? These are questions which naturally and inevitably arise in the human mind. Our sacred books alone have, for these questions precise, positive, and striking solutions; they alone explain to man his present state, and reveal to him that of the future. On the one hand, the present and constant action of God in the world; and on the other, the satisfaction of the moral and imperious requirements of humanity. That is what the Bible is, and what it effects—that is why it is only necessary to be spread abroad, and to be kept constantly before the eyes of men, to assure its complete empire!—Washington's Register.

THE WATCHWORD.

Many of our soldiers find the tediousness of their long night-watches relieved by the solemn presence of the Saviour, and by the pleasant thoughts and inspiring hopes springing from communion with Him. One of our exchanges tells a good story of some British soldiers.

In one of the great rock galleries of Gibraltar two British soldiers had mounted guard, one at each end of the vast tunnel. One was a sleeping man, whose soul had found rest upon the Rock of Ages, the other was seeking rest, but had not found it.

It was midnight and these soldiers were going their rounds, the one meditating on the blood which had brought peace to his soul, the other darkly brooding over his own disquietude and doubts. Suddenly an officer passes, challenging the former, and demands the watchword. "The precious blood of Christ" called out the startled veteran, forgetting for a moment the password of the night, and uttering, unconsciously, the thought which was at that moment filling his soul. Next moment he corrected himself and the officer, no doubt amazed, passed on. But the words he spoke had rung through the gallery, and entered the ears of his fellow-soldier at the other end like a message from heaven. The precious blood of Christ! Yes that was peace! His troubled soul was now at rest. That midnight voice had spoken the good news to him, and God had carried home the message. The precious blood of Christ! strange, but blessed watchword, never to be forgotten! For many a day and year, no doubt it would be the joy and rejoicing of his heart.—Watchman & Reflector.

THE REBELS, AND HOW THEY WILL COME BACK.

By our Telegraphic items of yesterday we were informed that Dr. Barney, of Baltimore, who is a Union man, placed himself in such a position that he would be taken by the rebels as a prisoner, in order by such a course, to gather some valuable information from rebel sources. Accordingly he was taken prisoner, as he intended to be, and conveyed to Richmond, where, having acquaintances among the members of the Confederate Cabinet, he was admitted to familiar interviews touching the present state of affairs, and when he was ready to return home, was intrusted by the Rebel Secretary, Judah P. Benjamin, with letters to Gov. Seymour, and the two Woods, of New York, to Cox and Vandigham, of Ohio, Senator Bayard, of Delaware, and to Beverly Johnson, of Maryland.

The rebels furthermore stated that they had no terms to offer, and that if they returned to the Union it must be as equals.

We presume that this means, when interpreted by the other inadmissible claims of the rebels—an assumption of their war debt, and a recognition of their "peculiar institution," as the "chief stone in the corner" of our re-establishing government—recognition which would be as abhorrent as it would be disgraceful to the feelings of all true freemen.

It means, simply, that they are to be re-admitted just as if they had always been loyal to the Union, and were not our debtors for blood and treasure to an incalculable amount. But those men North, who, under the sacred name of democracy, have always pandered to the slave oligarchy, are to take them by the hand and lead them once more within the walls of the sacred temple of Liberty, and place them in the highest seats to minister at her chosen priests before her altar, with their hands dripping with the blood of our loyal brothers. Yes, it means, if it means anything, that those Southern rebels are to come back into the Union unchastised—unbrought in a single lesson of forbearance from their impiousness towards the North—with the flush of a political victory over their bows, if not of the triumph of arms. Are we prepared for this humiliating end of all our sacrifices? Shall this blatant destroyer of our dearest rights go unwhipped of justice, and come back into this Union, under the auspices of a false democracy, in the flush of political victory, to farm out to those who have been loyal to the government their miserable pitiful scraps of political crumbs—as the master to his slaves, and bring about us such a state of things, that it were worse for a man to have been loyal than disloyal. Can it be, that the people of the North, by the recent democratic victories in such issues as these? Can it be, that this, that loyalty will be the badge of the new nation? These are serious considerations. If the South come back under the auspices of the men mentioned in the first part of this article—the confidential correspondents of a traitor in open rebellion against our government, can it be, we ask any man of ordinary sense, can it be, by any possibility, upon any ground, so pernicious to all that we held dear and worthy of preservation in our institutions? Can it be, on any ground, but that of the exaltation of Jeff. Davis and his whole crew, into power, and the deepest humiliation of the loyal men of the North? Can it be on any ground but the embodiment of the worst principles of the Confederation into our own government, and the rejection from our own Constitution of all that made us a great and flourishing nation? Can it be, on any other ground, than that of the rejection of all that made our forefathers the founders of the best and freest government in the world, and the adoption instead, of the corruptions of a sham and worn-out democracy? If this is to be the end of all our sacrifices of blood and treasure, better that in some mighty physical upwelling of nature, this Continent be lost to the world, and we go out forever, politically and physically from existence, and sink from view, amid some terrible "natural" convulsion, and the "places that knew us no more forever." This indeed, would be by far, a lesser calamity than that the authors of this wicked rebellion should be permitted to go unwhipped of justice, or not learn the useful lessons of a chastening experience—or than that this rebellion should fall with the most crushing weight upon loyalty instead of treason. Better, far better, that we perish from the face of the earth, than subject ourselves to a disgraceful compromise, as dishonorable to our manhood as it would be useless as a foundation of government. Better, that we cease to be, than to build again on any "foundation of stubble"—any other foundation, in fact, than that of eternal justice, and a recognition of an equality, social and political, in all parts of our country; until the Southern chivalry, falsely so called, shall be brought to a full recognition of the higher and true dignity of labor—free labor—over every other claim to true manhood. Labor—free labor—must be the corner-stone of a permanent government, whilst any other with any color or form foundation cannot endure.

Peace, peace, say we, PEACE forever, but in the name of Heaven let it not be inaugurated upon a spurious foundation or by disloyal hands—by the hands of men who would sell the birth-right of an American freeman for less than "a mess of pottage," even for the love of office—men who are disloyal to all pure government, justice and truth, and loyal only to the corruptions of party and to self, pilfering and peculation. No, let us have an honorable peace, made permanent by being founded on a true equality that recognizes no distinctions but those created by Him who "has made of one blood all the nations of the earth."

Local News.

THE STORM IN OUR HARBOR.—The storm last evening was a very severe one, and, we fear, will be prolific of some serious accidents along our coast. The New York and Fall River Boat has not yet arrived on her regular trip at our writing, 11 o'clock A. M. The Steamer Winnisimmet, a side wheel steam Ferry Boat, from Chelsea, Mass., chartered by the U. S. Government, and bound to Fortress Monroe, put in here last evening for shelter. She came to anchor near the blue rocks, just back of Mr. Morris's residence, which is a poorly selected anchorage, as the Pilot was informed by some of our fishermen on the Point. In the night, although with two bow anchors out, she drifted on to the Long Wharf, just north of the Moss Bank Cottage, and in doing so damaged four of the Point fishing boats belonging to Thomas Stevens, Thomas Goddard, Russell Pike, and Henry N. Meritt. Mr. Stevens is the greatest loser, as his boat was almost a new one, and cost him nearly $300. Mr. Meritt's was cut adrift and damaged in the bows, and he found her this morning sunk between the Marion and the Constitution. The rest are more damaged than Mr. Meritt's. The Steamer this morning got up steam and at high water slipped her anchors, and came to the South side of the Long Wharf, where she now lies.

We do not exactly feel willing to speak positively as to the technical liability of the steamer for the damages done, but this much we do know, that it is a very hard case for our industrious fishermen, and we hope there may be some liability somewhere, for any others of the parties concerned are far better able to meet the losses incurred, than those upon whom they have fallen. Our fishermen are a hard-working, industrious and honest set of men; and of course not overburdened "with the goods of this world," and we hope that this loss, will, in some way, be made good to them. If there be no legal liability on the part of the damaging party, can it not be made good from other sources? Who will respond?

HOSPITAL DIRECTOR.—We call the attention of our readers to the following notice sent us by the General Secretary of the Sanitary Commission—it has in view the establishment of a General Hospital in the Hospitals in the District of Columbia and in those at Frederick City, Maryland.

DIRECTORY OF HOSPITALS.

The attention of clergymen, editors and others is respectfully requested to the following notice, which is of interest to all who have friends in the army, and which it is therefore desirable should be widely published:

DIRECTORY OF THE HOSPITALS.

The Sanitary Commission have established an office of information in regard to patients in the Hospitals of the District of Columbia, and of Frederick City, Maryland. By a reference to books, which are corrected daily, an answer can, under ordinary circumstances be given by return mail to the following questions:

1st. Is _____ (giving name and regiment) at present in the hospitals of the District or of Frederick City?

2d. If so, what is his proper address?

3d. What is the name of the Surgeon or Chaplain of the hospital?

4th. If not in hospital at present, has he recently been in hospital?

5th. If so, did he die in hospital, and at what date?

6th. If recently discharged from hospital, was he discharged from service?

7th. If not, what were his orders on leaving?

The Commissioner is prepared also to furnish more specific information as to the condition of any patient in the District hospitals, within twenty-four hours after a request to do so, from an officer of his corresponding societies.

The office of the Director will be open daily from 8 o'clock a. m. to 8 o'clock p. m., and accessible in urgent cases at any hour of the night.

The number of patients in these hospitals is about 25,000. It could be practicable, the duty here undertaken locally by the Commission will be extended to include all the general hospitals in the country.

FRED. LAW OLNEY,

ADAMS House, 244 F St., Gen. Secy.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 16th, 1863.

GETTING RAMPANT.—We are informed that our New London neighbors, are getting into a bad state of mind, and yesterday hung Secretary Wells in effigy, on account of the recommendation contained in his late report, that Philadelphia is the most suitable place for the new Naval Depot. It is not much use to kick, as the "powers that be" will do just as they please—but we know it is hard to bear the idea of injustice whether real or fancied. The effigy is said by an eye witness, to have been very life like.

FREDERICK W. PRATT Esq., associate Editor of the Mercury, whose illness we noticed in a recent issue, we are glad to learn from the Mercury of to-day, that it is convalescent, and that it is expected that he will soon be able to resume his duties.

Mr. Alfred Speer of New Jersey, has been in town introducing an article of Samuel Wino from his vineyard where he has 80,000 bottles which has attained the age of four years. The samples which he left with us are certainly very palatable, and from the certificates of eminent chemists which he holds, it is doubtless a valuable medicinal remedy, as well as a superior article for family use. Excellent for females.—New Haven Courier.

ZION CHURCH.—This Church will be open for divine service, to-morrow evening, commencing at 7 o'clock. The usual afternoon service will be omitted.

LAWES PROS.—Mr. Peleg Brownell, of Little Compton, has raised and slaughtered two pigs 6 months old, one weighing 277 1/2 lbs., the other 320 lbs.

From the 12th U. S. Regiment.
CAMP CAXTON, near Fairfax Seminary, Fall River Co., Va., Nov. 29, 1862.

FAIRFIELD 8.—Night has thrown her mantle over our camp, and the Soldier's duty for to-day is finished. The sky is overcast with clouds, which give evidence of a coming snow storm. The night being unpleasant and chilly, the boys are all in doors, or rather in tents—the most of them engaged in writing home. I hope my prediction may not prove true in regard to the storm, for snow is a curse to the soldier, who is often obliged to be exposed to the inclemency of the weather. Rain is bad enough, at this season of the year, yet snow is far more to be dreaded by the soldier. For days at a time is the soldier often obliged to expose himself to the severe storms that visit this section of the country, at this time of the year. Often is he obliged, when night comes on, to lay his head upon the cold ground, and with only his blanket between him and the ground, and the Heavens above him, up to which he looks and thinks of that home and the dear friends he has left there, with mingled feelings of pleasure and fear. Yet, among all the sufferings and privations which duty often obliges the soldier to endure, there is always one pleasure, one source of comfort, and that is the thought of home, and of the time when he shall return there, after peace has once more been restored to our country, and traitors have met their dues—dues which I hope and believe will soon be paid them.

Duty of ten requires the soldier to endure sufferings and privations for the sake of his country, which he could not endure if it were not in a cause holy and right. In the case of some I know that this is true. I know also that there are those in our army, who would not be there to-day if it were not for the large amount of money which they received for enlisting. Yet the larger part of our great army were moved by higher and more honorable motives than that of money, when they enlisted. Perhaps without the money they would not have enlisted, yet I say that money was not the only object they had when they enlisted. They would not, for the paltry sum alone which they received, deprive themselves of a good home, as numbers have done, to undergo the hardships of a soldier's life.

Brothers there a man with soul so dead, Who never to himself hath said, This is my own, my native land."

Love of country is strong in every man's breast. There are but few in our army, but would be willing to suffer all the privations and hardships possible, for the sake of their poor bleeding country, for the Union and the Constitution. Who have suffered more than the survivors of McClellan's old army? Those men, it is true, when almost within the city of Richmond, were overcome by superior numbers and obliged to retreat fighting, and yet now, notwithstanding the sufferings which these men have endured without grumbly, they are willing to endure it again for their country. Even those who were most ready to be led into the ranks of the rebels, are anxious to be again with their comrades who are about to be marched again to Richmond. If it were the only object that prompted these men to enlist, they would not be so willing again to encounter the enemy, whom they know by experience to be as strong and brave as they are. Hoping and believing that success will crown the march of our brave army at this time, I will bid this subject for the present, good bye.

The Regiment will remain in its present location probably through the coming winter, although I have heard that the regiment is about to be ordered into Washington to do Provost duty. The report came from the headquarters of the Brigade, and it may prove true. I cannot say whether I should like this Provost duty or not.

The health of our men continues good considering the season of the year, which is considered as the most sickly part of the year. There is but little sickness among the regiment, and scarcely any among the Newport boys. Captain Almy has been quite sick, but I am happy to write that he is fast recovering, and in a day or two he will be able to resume the command of his company.—Lieut. Col. Cook has left and gone to Rhode Island. Col. Browne, I suppose, will have to leave in the Spring, as he is a member of Congress.—Tattoo is about to be beat by the drummers, and I must close.

18. DEAR FRIEND.—I wrote you not so long ago that we should quarter here all winter—but I was wrong it seems. Not half an hour since, we received orders to be in readiness to march to-morrow—where, I know not, but from what I can gather, I think we shall move towards Fredericksburg or Harper's Ferry. We will take three days' rations. We have been supplied with shelter tents—they are very small, so small that they are carried upon the backs of the men. Everything looks as though we should soon see more active service. When I arrive at our place of destination, I shall immediately write to you. Until then, good bye. Your friend.

CONCORD 4. B. G.

FALL RIVER ITEMS.

The News says that Joseph Scott was thrown out of a wagon in Fall River on Wednesday morning, and had his left arm broken, and his head badly cut.

William H. Bracket, cashier of the Poossett Banks, has accepted the office of cashier of the Washington Bank, Boston.

The Citizens' Saving Bank, of Fall River, has declared a semi-annual dividend of 2 1/2 per cent.

LITTLE COMPTON ITEMS.

Thomas W. Kempton, of Little Compton, killed two wild geese at one shot yesterday afternoon, weighing at least 10 pounds when dressed. Theodore Bailey also shot another of the same flock.

CIVILISATION SYMPOPHY.—The citizens of the Golden state, not being called to suffer so severely as do those states near to the seat of war, are contributing nobly to the relief of the sick and suffering soldiers of the Federal army. Two telegraphic despatches have been received from California, each announcing that $100,000 had been collected, mainly in San Francisco, which was at the disposal of the Sanitary Commission.

TAZZARANTICO JESORAX.—It would be laughable if it were not pitiable to witness the extent to which the ignorance and crudity of the people of England impress upon them the most absurd stories. Oh, Johnny, Johnny, after this you ought not to be called Johnny Bull any more, but Jack-Ass. Read the following announcement from an English paper:

"A correspondent of the Morning Herald says that a recent steamer from Liverpool took out twenty-four French guillotines, consigned to President Lincoln's confidential agent in New York."

The New York Tribune thus facetiously "hits off" this wonderful announcement:

"Now that this secret has leaked out, we may add that one of these guillotines is so constructed as to be worked by steam. It is on the rotary plan and has six axes, so that six persons may be decapitated at each revolution. This one will be erected in Capitol square, at Washington, and will first be tried on the Sioux Indians captured by Gen. Sibley and Pope. It is in view of the arrival of this guillotine that the President has thus far declined to order the execution of the Indian murderers. Should it work according to expectation, it will become a 'permanent institution,' and will save the Government a considerable outlay for hemp and powder when Jeff. Davis and his fellow-traitors are caught. As there is no longer any reason for keeping this remarkable importation a secret, we trust the people will have a chance to inspect the machines before they are forwarded to Washington; and for the purpose of gratifying public curiosity, we call upon Marshal Murray the confidential agent allied to the Mercury, to give notice of a petition for the 'Fall River and Mansfield Railroad,' to pass through the towns of Somerville, Dighton, Norton and Mansfield, to a point near the Mansfield Junction,—capital stock $300,000. L. W. Worcester and O. W. Boylston give notice of a petition for the 'Fall River and Taunton Railroad,' to be constructed on the eastern side of Taunton River, with a capital of $300,000.

ADAM THUNDER was drafted in Franklin township, and Theodore Lightning has been drafted in the Third Ward of Kingston. With the resistance of Thunder and Lightning we certainly ought to be able to conquer the rebels.

The Whig says a couple were married in that city a day or two since where the bride was 71 and the groom was 73. The old proverb says: "Better thrive late than never do well."

PROPOSED RAILROADS.—Moors, W. Manuel and J. S. T. Cushing give notice of their intention to petition for the charter of the "Somerset and Mansfield Railroad," to pass through the towns of Somerset, Dighton, Norton and Mansfield, to a point near the Mansfield Junction,—capital stock $300,000.
